PUBLIC WORSHIP Last week we talked about us keeping public worship under constant review. Now, in the light of the rapid spread of the more infectious variant of Covid-19 and the vulnerability of many in our congregations, and in line with the current public health guidance that people should stay at home, we have reluctantly decided to suspend public worship until further notice. Regular weekly online services will continue to be available via the website resources and service online page. Let me encourage those who have not seen any of this to explore the available worship to be found there. Beyond that we pray that you are all preserved in health and peace of spirit, and that the vaccine roll-out allows us all to be together in church again very soon. God bless you all. CMRP

Deanery Prayer Diary for January – this excellent prayer resource is now available to view or download from the link on our website. Let me encourage you to make use of it.

A Word for our Times The desert father Abba Nilus was asked the point and value of prayer in hard times. He replied, "Prayer is a remedy against grief and depression, and the seed of hope."

For Your Prayers

As the Week for Christian Unity begins, with the theme "Abiding in Christ" pray for the other denominations with whom we share a call to the Gospel and to mission.

Church: for the Anglican Church of Australia, and in the Diocese for the Intergenerational Ministers and especially for their outreach work to children and families during these difficult times and lockdown; also for Bishop Richard as he seeks to connect with the congregations committed to his charge.

World: with events in Washington unfolding rapidly, pray for stable and democratic government throughout the world and for peace and a cessation of hostilities in places of war and unrest; remember too the families and all who have died or are missing in last week's Indonesian air disaster.

People: in a week where the virus continues to spread remember all who are sick or suffering and for those working tirelessly in our hospitals ICUs and the community praying that we, at all times, unselfishly play our part in trying to halt the transmission of this disease; in these difficult times we continue to pray for farmers, teachers and all key workers

Pray for all who we know to be unwell especially Bobby Cross, Dave Grayson, Ian Ross and Alexander Letts and for all who mourn the loss of loved ones, especially the Price family after the death of Winifred, asking for the comfort of God's presence with them and strength in their suffering.
